Foreword

WE HAVE here extended a sincere effort to present a volume of the Monticola which is in keeping with the forward tide of West Virginia.

We have endeavored to depict a true likeness of our school and by so doing, give pleasure to you.

Pleasant thoughts of true fellowship with college friends and faculty, now vivid and seemingly indelible, may gradually fade and pass. To preserve these memories for future moments of enjoyment is the object of the 1931 Monticola.

Dedication

In appreciation of his devotion to the University we dedicate

The 1931 Monticola

to

Frank Witcher McCullough

Law Class 1910

A loyal Mountaineer—a true

West Virginian.

Freshman Class History

We were introduced, seven hundred strong, to College Life by the first annual Freshman Week. During this period we were advised and instructed about different things that would arise during our stay at the University and how to meet them.

After Registration we donned the Freshman Caps, black ties and black socks. Quite a letdown from the high and lofty positions we held as Seniors in our respective high schools, but we were not long in acclimating ourselves to the conditions. Of course, the strong arm of the Vigilance Committee may be helped to subdue us some.

There were Student and Freshman Mixes. Here we met many people and made many friends. We were rushed around for a week or so by the various organizations and made to think that we were great stuff.

Football games in the Fall were great. The Gold and Blue bunting floating over Mountaineer Field and the Band parading to the rhythmic strains of Hail West Virginia. It was all a great thrill for us. Then the Winter sports and many dances. Then along came examinations to put a damper on our activities for a while. They also tended to deplete our ranks to some extent. A great majority survived however for the Springtime in Morgantown.

As I write the Spring Elections are getting under way. Rival factions are soliciting our votes with many promises of fine things. It looks as though it will be a great affair.

Mountaineer Week

In keeping with a well established custom, on April the fourteenth began the fourth annual Mountaineer Week. This year about ninety of the high schools over the state of West Virginia were visited by nine of the leading students of the University.

In the past it had been a custom to send the men out in teams of three but; this year there were individual speakers at each school.

George Jackson was the manager of the entire group and made out itineraries for the following men: John D. Phillips, Richard Ralston, Winchester Latham, Christy Wildt, Nelson Lang, Cyrus Kump, Paul Bottome, Byron Randolph and George Jackson.

It was not the object of these speakers to interest students in West Virginia University alone; but in all forms of higher education. As a starter for the week, a radio program was given over Station WMMN, in which songs of the State were sung and speeches made by prominent educators.

It was, all in all, a very successful affair and West Virginia University is quite proud that she is able to sponsor such a program.

Monticola Calendar

SEPTEMBER

- 11, Wednesday—First "Freshman Week" proves big success.
- 16, Monday—Upperclassmen all ready for fall rushing since they had the privilege of advanced registration—but, oh, these poor freshmen!
- 19, Thursday—Alarm clocks all set for eight o'clock classes.
- 20, Friday—Registration totals 2,419.
- 21, Saturday—Football season starts again. Too bad Wesleyan! Better luck next time. Sorority women doing a rushing business these days. Fraternity men saying, "We don't need him anyway."
- 26, Thursday—Fi Baters pledge 18 today. Dr. Reese displays live rattlesnakes from southern West Virginia.
- 27, Friday—George "Red" Healey introduces his new song "Fight Mountaineers."
- 28, Saturday—5,000 people see opening of new airport at Suncrest. The sororities seemed to have scored with the new freshman co-eds even if we did lose to D. and E.
- 30, Monday—We are glad the new freshman caps are brighter and a better fit since they are so seriously essential.

OCTOBER

- 1, Tuesday—"Mike" puts in first appearance at practice house. Lucky "Mike." Sorority fight's over at last.
- 2, Wednesday—Athenaeum staff most carefully selected. We all hope they put more in it than news of professors and meetings of "such and such" clubs.

- 3, Thursday—Students pay $200 a day for smokes. Five hundred stubs found on library steps daily.

SOCIETY

FIRST UNIVERSITY DANCE—OCTOBER 26, 1929

The social season was ushered in very successfully by the first University Dance. The Armory was decorated for the occasion with blue and gold streamers hung from a crystal ball in the center of the room. Carson Howard's "West Virginians" furnished the music.

CO-ED PROM—NOVEMBER 8, 1929

The one dance of the year at which males are taboo was held in the Armory under the name of the Co-Ed Prom. All house mothers on the campus were invited to attend as honor guests. Several specialty dances were presented and prizes were given to the best looking couple. Carson Howard's orchestra provided the music.

FIRST CADET HOP

The first Cadet Hop of the year was held Saturday, November 9. The Armory was beautifully decorated with American flags, and red, white, and blue festooning which made for a military atmosphere. Carson Howard's orchestra played the program of dances. The members of the Detroit football team were special guests.

WOMAN'S HALL FORMAL

The annual semester formal of the three resident hall, Woman's hall, the annex, and the Boughner house was given in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan, November 23. Carson Howard and his orchestra played the program of dances, and light refreshments were served during intermission.

MOUNTAINEER CARNIVAL

A new wrinkle was formed in the Social Calendar of the University when a Mountaineer Carnival was held in the new Field House. This event, long an idea in the mind of George Jackson, was made possible by the hearty support which he received from all organizations on the Campus. Each club having a booth in the Field House. There were Shooting Galleries, Chance Wheels and Side Shows. There was continued dancing Wednesday evening and Thanksgiving night. Kappa Sigma was awarded the trophy for having the most attractive booth at the Carnival. On Thursday morning there was a Home coming Parade in which the various campus organizations took part.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The members of Sigma Phi Epsilon entertained with their semester formal December 6 in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan. Music for the program of dances was furnished by Carson Howard and his orchestra, and light refreshments were served throughout the evening.

LITTLE PAN-HELLENIC

Delta Epsilon, Tau Delta Theta, Sigma Delta Phi, and Kappa Mu entertained jointly with a formal dance in the Armory December 7. The decorations were furnished by Turner and the Peerless Syncopators of Uniontown, Pa. played the program.

FIRST PAN-HELLENIC

The first Pan-Hellenic was held in the Armory, which was beautifully decorated in blue and white. A splendid program of dances was played by Ray Miller and his Brunswick Recording Orchestra of Chicago. The decorations were by Turner and the catering by Comuntzis. The committee in charge was composed of Alison Fittro, Christy Wildt and Malcolm Lowe.

BARN DANCE

The students of the College of Agriculture held their annual Barn Dance at the State Dairy Barn. Dancers appeared as farmers and farmerettes. Donald Edwards and his orchestra furnished the music for a delightful program of dances.

CHI OMEGA

Chi Omega entertained with a formal dance in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan January 10. Carson Howard and his orchestra played the program of dances from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m.

TORCH AND SERPENT

The members of Torch and Serpent entertained with their tenth annual dance December 13 from 9 to 7 o'clock in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan. The music for the program of dances was furnished by Marion Hardy and his Alabamans of New York. The letter men of the University athletic squads were the guests of the organization.

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi gave their semester formal January 11 in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan from 8:30 to 11:30. The music for the program of dances was furnished by Edgar Barrett's orchestra of Fairmont. Decorations consisted of balloons arranged in carnival fashion.

ALPHA XI DELTA—JANUARY 11, 1930

Pledges of Alpha Xi Delta entertained the active chapter with a formal dance in the dining room of the Hotel Morgan. The room was decorated with artistic panels depicting underseas scenes, sea shells and a ceiling canopy simulating green sea weed. The music was furnished by Carson Howard's "West Virginians."

MILITARY BALL—JANUARY 27, 1930

The annual Military Ball, given by the R. O. T. C. in the Armory, was one of the most successful events staged here in recent years. The center of the Armory was marked by an illuminated American shield from which the stars and stripes were draped in circular fashion. Joe Nesbit's Pennsylvanians played the program of dances from 9:00 until 2:00.

KAPPA SIGMA

Members of the Kappa Sigma fraternity utilized the Armory for their semester formal. Copple's orchestra, of Wheeling, furnished the program of dances.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

The Annual Skull Dance of Phi Kappa Sigma was held in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan. A five course dinner for the members of the Fraternity and their guests preceded the dance. Novel lighting effects featured the decorations. The music was furnished by Emery Howard's orchestra.

VALENTINE DANCE

The second University dance was held Saturday, February 15 with Paul Graham and his Crackers, broadcasting orchestra from Miami Beach, Fla., playing the program of dances. Decorations in red and white carried out the valentine scheme, and serpentine and confetti added to the enjoyment of more than two hundred couples present.

GAMMA PHI BETA

Gamma Phi Beta entertained with a formal dance at the Ortolan February 22. Bill Hughes and his orchestra furnished the music. A modernistic design in black and white was carried out in the programs and decorations.

PHI MU

Gamma Beta chapter of Phi Mu entertained with their winter formal at the Hotel Morgan February 22. The ballroom was decorated in gold and black, and Carson Howard's orchestra played the program of twelve dances.

MARDI GRAS

The annual Mardi Gras which is sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. was held February the twenty-eighth at the Armory. Pirate costumes seemed to be the vogue, and prizes were given for the most unique one. Barkers vied to win the crowd to the various booths ranged along the west end of the Armory. A program of park plan dances was played by Carson Howard's West Virginians.

CADET HOP

The second Cadet Hop of the year was held in the Armory on March 7. Festooning in blue and white and American flags featured the decorations by Turner. Carl McElfresh and his orchestra from Fairmont played the program. Scabbard and Blade, military organization, was in charge of the arrangements.

PHI BETA PI

The annual winter formal of Phi Beta Pi, national medical fraternity, was held at the Hotel Morgan Friday, March 7. Carson Howard's orchestra furnished the music.

WOMAN'S PAN-HELLENIC

The annual woman's Pan-Hellenic was held Friday, March 21 in the Armory. Paul Graham and his Crackers played the music. The decorations were in keeping with the St. Patrick season, being in green and white.

PRESS CLUB FORMAL

Press Club held its yearly formal dance in the Armory on Saturday, March 22. Paul Graham and his Crackers played the program of dances. Local newspaper officials were the guests of the club.

PAN-HELLENIC—MARCH 28, 1930

The popularity of Pan-Hellenic dances was evidenced by the great number of dancers that filled the Armory to capacity to enjoy the Pan-Hellenic dance. The room was decorated in a novel way and the music of Johnny Johnson's orchestra was enthusiastically acclaimed by the dancers.

CADET HOP

The University Armory was gay with patriotic emblems and decorations symbolic of military activity. This was the final Cadet Hop of the year and the men of the corps and the officers appeared in uniform. Music was furnished by Carson Howard's West Virginians.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The spring formal dance of Alpha Delta Pi was held Saturday, April 5 in the dining room of the Hotel Morgan. The program of dances played by Carson Howard and his orchestra lasted from 8:30 until 11:30 p. m.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

The Mountaineers, garbed in their new gold and blue ensemble, stopped a powerful West Virginia Wesleyan backfield and ripped the Methodist mediocre line to shreds to win their first game of the season by whipping the Bobcats, 10-6.

Although their attack was none too smooth, the Mountaineers used straight football and very few passes to run up a margin of twenty-one first downs to eight.

After dominating the play in the first quarter, but failing to score, the Varsity made a steady march down the field in the second quarter, aided by a pass from LaRue to Lang, and finally scored. Another sustained drive in the third period resulted in a second touchdown, and the other points were added by the accuracy of Capt. "Little Sleepy" Glenn's placement kicks. His final three points were picked up by a perfect placement from the 22-yard line just a few minutes before the game ended.

DAVIS & ELKINS 13; WEST VIRGINIA 6.

A band of so-called Senators with a distinctly cosmopolitan aspect, including the war paints and Indian regalia, topped the Mountaineers for the second season in a row by winning the Sept. 28, game at Mountaineer field, 13-6. West Virginia had a more powerful attack, but lacked sufficient scoring punch, despite the margin of thirteen first downs to eight.

The Scarlet Hurricane scored five minutes after the game got underway. After an exchange of punts, D. & E. took possession of the ball in midfield and aided by a fumble-gain of twelve yards when yardage was pressing, finally pushed over a touchdown on a 34-yard pass from Rengle to Mitchell. The Indian Smith kicked the extra point.

West Virginia was twice halted at the 20-yard line in the first half after long marches, but the Mountaineers managed to tally just about four minutes before the first half ended when Stumpp heaved a 15-yard pass to Bartrug and the latter got away for a touchdown for a total advance of 50 yards. Capt. M. Glenn missed the try for point and Davis-Elkins had a 7-6 advantage.

The Mountaineers dominated the play until the last few minutes of the game, but they still lacked the scoring punch. Warren, fleet Scarlet Hurricane halfback, thwarted further effort to turn the tide to a Mountaineer victory when he intercepted a West Virginia pass and got away for a 40-yard advance to the State 17-yard strip. Davis-Elkins lacked the drive to add to her total, however, and West Virginia was soon in possession of the ball again. Finally, in a last desperate attempt to win the game, the Mountaineers resorted to passing from deep in their own territory. LaRue stood on his 10-yard marker and attempted to pass, but it was blocked by two big Senator ends, fell into Kepner's hand, and he went over for D. & E.'s other touchdown unmolested, thus submerging the Mountaineers, 13-6.

WEST VIRGINIA 7; DUQUESNE 7.

When the Mountaineers were pitted against Duquesne University for the first time on Mountaineer Field, Oct. 5, it developed that out-of-doors basketball was the style of athletic endeavor in vogue. Both West Virginia and Duquesne scored their touchdowns on long-range passing attacks, the Mountaineers in the last three minutes of the first half and the Dukes in the last three minutes of the game.

The Varsity was spending its time on straight football, piling up first downs on bucks and exchanges of punts, but lacking a scoring drive under such conditions. Duquesne could do nothing with the Mountaineer line, especially with Julian Scott, tackle, playing a remarkable game. Sensing an opportunity to use the West Virginia passing attack to advantage, Coach Ira Rodgers sent Eddie Stumpp into the game with but three minutes of the first half to go. "Stumppie" picked out Capt. M. Glenn on three different occasions and this duo completed three consecutive passes for 60 yards and a touchdown. Glenn added the goal from placement.

As the second half progressed, Duquesne still failed to make any impression in the Mountaineer defense and West Virginia contented itself with conservative football. Finally the Dukes halted a Mountaineer drive on their own 10-yard line. The Pittsburghers then started an aerial drive which was not stopped by West Virginia, finally culminating in a 43-yard pass from Benedict to Pratt for a touchdown. Capt. "Biff" Donnelly, the Dukes' star kicker, added the extra point from placement and the score was deadlocked at 7-7. The game ended soon after the kickoff without any other damage done.

PITT 27; WEST VIRGINIA 7.

Superior power and more speed figured in the victory of the University of Pittsburgh over West Virginia by a 27-7 count at Pittsburgh, Oct. 12.

Pitt, with "Pug" Parkinson, "Toby" Uansa and "Josh" Williams slashing and tearing behind a wall of interference, put the Mountaineers under with two touchdowns in the first half and two more in the third quarter.

Williams scored the first touchdown for the Panthers on a 22-yard run around end midway of the first quarter to end a 61-yard march. The Pitt outfit came right back and added another 77-yard advance, but were halted on the three-yard line by the Mountaineers, but still packing too much power to be stopped they staged a 51-yard parade and scored their second touchdown on a 10-yard pass from Williams to Uansa.

The Panthers received the second-half kickoff and went unmolested through the Mountaineers for 73-yards and their counter. West Virginia received the subsequent kickoff and got back to the Mountaineer 40-yard line. On the first play Stumpp threw a well-pitched pass to Bill Behnke and the latter galloped down the sidelines with good interference for the only West Virginia touchdown. Pitt's final touchdown was scored by Uansa in the third quarter after he had intercepted a pass thrown by Stumpp and raced 60 yards.

There was little excitement in the final chapter, and neither team scored.

WEST VIRGINIA 26; WASHINGTON AND LEE 6

In spite of a sweltering heat which was more typical of a day on the beach than a session on the gridiron, the Mountaineers trimmed the Washington and Lee Generals at Charleston, 26-6, Oct. 19.

With LaRue, Francis Glenn, and Jake Sebulsky leading the offensive, West Virginia ripped through the Generals' line for a quartet of touchdowns.

Washington and Lee threatened early in the game by a recovery of a West Virginia fumble on the Mountaineer 34-yard strip. The Generals marched to the State 2-yard line, but there the Southerners were halted and relinquished the ball on downs. After kicking out of danger and gaining on another exchange of punts, the Mountaineers got a break which started them on the scoring spree.

Midway of the first quarter Capt. M. Glenn pounced on a loose ball on the Generals' 20-yard line and three plays later LaRue plunged over from the 6-yard line. After receiving the kickoff which followed, the Mountaineers marched consistently down the field for 65-yards and another score as Varney plunged over from the 2-yard line.

Wash-Lee scored in the second half as West Virginia fumbled and a General recovered on the Mountaineer 30-yard strip. Two passes, both to Williams, giant end, gave the Virginians their only tally of the game.

The Mountaineers came right back with another sustained march and worked the ball to the Wash-Jeff 25-yard mark from which point F. Glenn broke through the General's forward wall, filtered through their secondary and was off for a touchdown.

Washington and Lee started a passing attack as the game neared a close, and finally had one intercepted on her 26-yard mark, from which point the Mountaineers plunged it through, with Capt. M. Glenn finally tallying from the 3-yard line.

WEST VIRGINIA 9; OKLAHOMA A. & M. 6.

It took all of Capt. "Little Sleepy" Glenn's resourcefulness to bring the Mountaineers through to a 9-6 victory over the Oklahoma "Aggies" in far-off Stillwater, Okla., Oct. 25, but his accurate placement kick just seconds before the half-time whistle blew and a great catch of a pass and the subsequent run through the "Aggie" team later in the game, turned the tide.

The Oklahomans were much tougher than had been expected and kept harassing the Mountaineers throughout the first half, but it was chiefly West Virginia fumbling that caused the trouble. Finally, just a few minutes before the half ended, the Mountaineers started a drive with the aid of a couple of long passes from LaRue to Lang, but they only got to the 23-yard line as the gun was about to boom. Glenn called time out and they decided on a placement try from the 23-yard mark. The wind was sweeping by in a bad direction, but Glenn's marksmanship was good and the Mountaineers took the rest period in the lead, 3-0.

After threatening once during the first part of the third quarter, the Mountaineers got the break which enabled them to score. An "Aggie" punt was blocked and recovered by Carrico on the Oklahomans' 36-yard line. A penalty set the Mountaineers back on the next play, but LaRue got off an 18-yard pass to Capt. M. Glenn and he picked his way the remaining 20 yards to score and put the Mountaineers ahead, 9-0.

About midway of the fourth quarter LaRue was hurt and Doyle replaced him. The latter caught an "Aggie" punt on his four-yard line and was downed without return. Sebelsky kicked out, but Oklahoma worked the ball down to the 15-yard line where Doyle intercepted a pass. A penalty put the Mountaineers back to their very goal line and then Sebelsky had his punt blocked and two husky "Aggie" linemen fell on the ball for a touch-down. The try for placement was missed.

The Oklahomans started a desperate passing attack in the last six minutes of the game and had the Mountaineers on a frantic defense, but they were equal to the occasion and they were in possession of the ball on their own 30-yard line as the game ended.

WEST VIRGINIA 0; FORDHAM 0.

The undefeated Fordham Rams were the Mountaineers' foes at the Polo Grounds, New York City, Nov. 5, and in a loosely played but exciting game the West Virginians held the New Yorkers at bay on their very goal line as the game ended, after having stopped the Cavanaugh team eight times previously inside of the 20-yard mark.

West Virginia had a good attack as the game opened, but developed an attack of "fumbles" and just about handed the game to the Rams on a golden platter. The Mountaineer line played remarkable ball, however, and every Fordham attempt to score after gift chances was smothered.

Fordham's only sustained march of the game came just five minutes before it closed when the Rams started on their own 28-yard line and chiefly through passing and a deceptive delayed buck, marched consistently down the field to the West Virginia 4-yard line, but here the Mountaineers held three times and the gun boomed to end the game before the last chance of the series of downs was afforded the New Yorkers.

"Tarzan" Glenn's great line plunging and Capt. "Little Sleepy" Glenn's great defensive play behind a stalwart line saved the day. Capt. Siano of the Fordhamites was an outstanding star on the defense, and but for him the Mountaineers would have been away for long runs time after time.

DETROIT 36; WEST VIRGINIA 0.

West Virginia suffered her worst home defeat in years when the Titans of the University of Detroit, led by the great Lloyd Brazil, halfback and captain, steamrolled the Mountaineers under a 36-0 score on Mountaineer field in the annual "West Virginia Day" game, Nov. 9.

The first quarter of the game was scoreless, but was marked by the Mountaineers' only scoring chance. They reached the Titan 16-yard line early in the game, but Detroit took the play from them there on and was never headed thereafter.

Detroit had possession of the ball on the West Virginia 30-yard line as the first period ended, but passes and Brazil's 10-yard scoot around end brought the first score. Late in the first half the Mountaineers were backed to their own goal line, but Bartrug got off a good kick to midfield. The shifty little "Sniz" Ross took it back 25-yards, however, and on the first play thereafter, Brazil heaved a long pass to Navin, end, who went over without being touched. Both tries for extra points were missed.

The third Detroit touchdown was scored midway of the third quarter on an 80-yard march, climaxed by a 43-yard pass from Brazil to Ross. Just before the third period ended, Behnke, Mountaineer end, fumbled after receiving a pass and Detroit recovered on its own 40-yard strip. Another uninterrupted march resulted and was terminated only when Ross wiggled his way through the Mountaineers to score from the 14-yard line.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Brazil intercepted one of LaRue's passes and was dropped on the West Virginia 40-yard line. Ross took the ball around end on the next play and raced 60 yards to tally.

Brazil practically accounted for the fourth touchdown himself near the close of the game when he got loose from the Detroit 42yard line to the West Virginia 10-yard line and then went over after three plunges, making the final score 36-0 when every try for the extra points failed.

Exerting their famous Mountaineer spirit, the Varsity gridders pulled the unexpected the week after the Detroit debacle when they encountered the tough Georgetown outfit at Griffith Stadium, Washington, Nov. 16, and held Lou Little's proteges to a 0-0 deadlock.

The Mountaineers played alert ball throughout the game but warded off the strongest threat when Georgetown reached the West Virginia 2-yard line with a first down late in the fourth quarter after a 50-yard march which was featured by a long pass.

After having been repulsed at every turn in their offensive efforts, the Mountaineers settled into a conservative defensive game which taxed the strength of the Hoyas to the limit. An off-side play gave the Hilltoppers their big chance at the two-yard mark as the fourth quarter drew near to a close. The Mountaineers held the Hoyas without gain on the first two plays of the series and on the third play Georgetown fumbled and Gene Joseph, a substitute end injected to help ward off the drive, pounced on the ball to stop the rush. Eddie Bartrug, who had hooked up with Capt. Mooney of Georgetown in a great punting dual, got the West Virginians out of danger with a long punt.

West Virginia played remarkably alert ball throughout, but the Hoyas continued to molest through the air even after thwarted, and it was the great defense offered by Eddie Stumpp and "Litt'e Sleepy" Glenn in the closing minutes which kept these passes from being converted into winning touchdowns.

There were no particular stars for West Virginia, for at no time during the season did they play so well as a team, unless it was in the closing encounter with Washington and Jefferson.

Living up to traditions, the Mountaineers would concede nothing to the Washington and Jefferson Presidents in their annual Thanksgiving day battle on Mountaineer field, and after a smart brand of football on a water and snow logged gridiron and in a driving snowstorm, topped the ancient rivals unexpectedly by a 6-0 count.

With the gridiron a literal sea of mud after the first few minutes of play, clean handling of the ball was rendered almost impossible, and it was on a piece of bad judgment that the Mountaineers got their scoring opportunity and capitalized on it to win the game.

About midway of the first quarter, Maury Rush, W. & J.'s fleet safety man, fumbled a punt which he should have played safe and Nelson Lang, Mountaineer terminal, pounced upon it on the Presidents' 11-yard line. An offside penalty aided the Mountaineers at this point and after five plays they finally sent "Tarzan" Glenn off tackle from the one-yard line for the winning score.

Neither team could gain appreciably, but the alert play of the Mountaineers gave them three other chances to strike at the Presidents "in close" after they had scored. W. & J. only once got as far as the West Virginia 28-yard line.

Eddie Bartrug's great punting of a muddy ball was the outstanding feature of the game.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL.

One of the finest freshmen football teams in years at the University completed a successful season by defeating Potomac State, Kiski, Broaddus, Glenville and Carnegie Tech frosh, tying Washington and Jefferson's plebes and losing to Pitt's yearlings by one touchdown.

Several outstanding members of the Little Mountaineer team are expected to fill in gaps on the Varsity on the 1936 outfit, and some are even considered superior to several Varsity holdovers.

Capt. Leo Dotson, Bill Parriott, Harold McClure, Andrew Brawley, Tommy Canich, Morris Drobeck and a few other backs are both hefty and speedy.

On the line, Wilbur Sortet, Jack Laskin and Carlan Hogue, ends; Frank Lough, Loyal Mackey and Fred Schweitzer, tackles; Jimmy Copeman, Homer Fizer, and Charlie Zirbis, guards; and Floyd Schwartzwalder and Dick Mentzer, centers, are all outstanding in promise.

NEBRASKA 45; WEST VIRGINIA 19

After a shaky start in the Mid-West on their opening barnstorming trip, the Nebraska "Cornhuskers" came to Mountaineer Field house and soundly defeated West Virginia, 45-19 in the Varsity's inaugural game of the season. The "Cornhuskers" were big, rangy fellows, but it was a comparatively close affair in the first half. In the second period, Grace, Nebraska's All-Missouri Valley Conference forward, set the pace and the Mountaineers fell sadly behind. Bartrug and Cubbon, both new men, alternated at center, and the combination did not "click." Capt. "Little Sleepy" Glenn led the West Virginia attack with five field goals.

M. GLENN
Captain

WEST VIRGINIA 39; CARNEGIE TECH 29

The Mountaineers still looked somewhat ragged as they defeated Carnegie Tech. 39-29 in the second game of the season. Capt. Glenn and Bartrug were "off" in their performances and both were ejected on personal fouls late in the game. Eddie Cubbon, sophomore forward, started his first game and went well, but Truehart Taylor, replaced him near the close of the game and gave one of his old-time rallying performances by looping five goals in about four minutes. Capt. Nease led the Tartans' attack with twelve points. Cubbon had eleven and Taylor ten.

WEST VIRGINIA 34; GEORGETOWN 27

With Truehart Taylor again supplying the winning punch with four goals late in the game, the Mountaineers won a rough game from Georgetown in the Field House on January 10. There were twenty-six fouls called in the game, seventeen on West Virginia and nine on Georgetown, but the Mountaineers outscored the Hoyas from the court and had better averages at the foul line to win, 34-27. Dutton, graceful Georgetown center, scored seventeen of his team's points, four field goals and nine in thirteen foul tries. West Virginia's points were well distributed, but Capt. Glenn had the most, thirteen. The Mountaineers had a 17-13 lead at halftime.

WEST VIRGINIA 33; W. VA. WESLEYAN 27

Wesleyan's Bobcats provided unexpected opposition for the Mountaineers in the Field House, January 14, but a superior defense and a slightly better offense kept West Virginia out in front throughout and at the end the Mountaineers had a 33-27 edge. Wesleyan could not get through the West Virginia defense, so the Bobcats fired away at long range. Battles, big Wesleyan forward, scored six from deep court and kept the Bobcats in the running. Meanwhile, the West Virginia offense was somewhat out of kilter and only a small portion of the Mountaineer shots "broke." Battles was high scorer for the game, with Glenn following closely with five goals.

PENN STATE 40; WEST VIRGINIA 39

As the season turned out, there was only one game on the Mountaineer card that surpassed the battle with Penn State in the Field House, January 18, and that was the closing encounter with Pitt. The West Virginia and Nittany Lion teams battled neck-and-neck throughout, the Mountaineers showing smooth passing and a thick defense, while the Penn Staters were going well with their long range gunning. The West Virginia forwards were in form, but the work of the "back line" of the offense was weak.

RATCLIFFE

On the contrary, Penn State's entire team worked into the scoring, mostly from deep court, however, and it was a long shot near the close of the game that gave the Lions their 40-39 decision. Taylor, playing his last game for the Mountaineers, worked brilliantly with Capt. Glenn, but Penn State's "double-barreled" attack from deep court could not be stopped.

W. V.A. WESLEYAN 24; WEST VIRGINIA 17

On the night of January 25 at Buckhannon, the Mountaineers went from the sublime—as it had been depicted in the Penn State game—to the ridiculous. The West Virginia team was ragged, passed poorly and played roughly, and despite the fact that they outscored the Bobcats eight to seven from the court, the too numerous fouls they committed were chiefly responsible for the Mountaineers' 24-17 downfall. Eddie Cubbon was the leading scorer, but he was handicapped by an injured foot. Capt. Glenn was entirely off form.

WEST VIRGINIA 51; SALEM 24

Although Salem College's Ten-Milers stopped Capt. Glenn, they forgot to keep tab on the other Mountaineers, principally Eddie Cubbon, and West Virginia smothered the little state school team, 51-24. Cubbon had nine goals and a foul to top all scorers, and Ratcliffe and Plaster, guards, got into the scoring conspicuously for the first time of the year to gather seven goals between them. The Mountaineers were ahead 32-13 at halftime. Dodds, Salem center, scored thirteen points for his team.

WEST VIRGINIA 50; WASHINGTON & LEE 34

The Mountaineers started their long and difficult Eastern trip by winning unexpectedly from the much-talked-about Washington and Lee General at Huntington, February 1, 50-34. Eddie Cubbon was left behind with an infected foot, but Johnny Doyle, the other sophomore forward, surprised Mountaineer fans by stepping into the breach and goaling nineteen points to lead the West Virginia attack. The Generals were "down" from the start and at half-time were behind, 28-15. Leigh Williams, All-Southern Conference center, was the only Wash-Lee player to appreciably dent the Mountaineer defense.

GEORGETOWN 34; WEST VIRGINIA 31

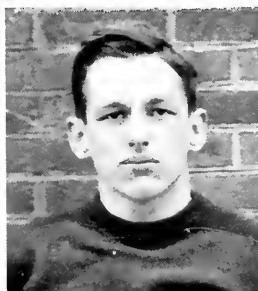

In a game much similar to that which the Mountaineers won from Georgetown at Morgantown earlier in the season, the Hoyas stopped the West Virginians at Washington, D. C., February 4 with a closing rally, 34-31. Georgetown was again in form from deep court, but the Mountaineers found the floor too slick for their fast passing offensive and failed to get their usual quota of "in" shots. Capt. Glenn played throughout the game and those on the remainder of the trip, with a fractured finger, received in the battle with the Wash-Lee Generals at Huntington.

TEMPLE 35; WEST VIRGINIA 29

West Virginia found Temple university's team too big for the small playing floor and failed to keep up with the Philadelphians at the start of the game which was played at Philadelphia, February 5. Despite the fact that they outscored Temple, 17-15 in the second half, the Mountaineers could not overcome the 20-12 lead the Philadelphians had at the rest period and finished 35-29 in the arrears.

PLASTER

FOX

ARMY 41; WEST VIRGINIA 36

Still without the services of Eddie Cubbon, the Mountaineers went on to West Point and dropped their third close game in a row to the Army Cadets, 41-36 on the afternoon of February 6. The Cadets pulled out in front, 30-24 in the first half by "breaking" well with their long shots. In the second half the game was toned down and stronger defensive fronts were evident, but again the Mountaineers fell short, 41-36. Capt. Glenn was the leading scorer with six goals.

RIDER COLLEGE 53; WEST VIRGINIA 21

The Mountaineers took their worst defeat of the season by losing to Rider college on another small court at Trenton, N. J., Feb. 7. Beiswanger, Rider's six-foot-eight forward popped seven goals through the basket to lead his team to a 53-21 verdict.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY 30; WEST VIRGINIA 28

After holding a 14-8 edge at halftime, the Mountaineers tired in their last game of the trip and New York University squeezed through with a 30-28 victory in New York City, February 8. The new Yorkers won the game by looping eleven fouls in seventeen tries, while West Virginia got but two in five. West Virginia outscored the Violet from the court, thirteen to eleven. Capt. Glenn again led the attack with six field goals.

DUQUESNE 28; WEST VIRGINIA 26

Using the so-called professional style of attack and stalling outside of the Mountaineer zone defense, the Duquesne "Dukes" managed to top the West Virginians, 28-26 at the Field house, Feb. 12, in West Virginia's first home game after the disastrous Eastern trip. At halftime, the Mountaineers were behind, 14-6, but the second period, they went out and played the man-for-man defense and outscored the Dukes, 20-14 in that period, just missing a victory in the closing minutes of the game which ended, 28-26 for the Pittsburghers. Capt. Glenn went goalless for the first time during the season, and only Cubbon was able to "break" his shots. "Midget" Stephens was the star for the Dukes.

WEST VIRGINIA 50; GENEVA 28

West Virginia settled an old score in the Field house on the night of Feb. 15 by trimming the Geneva Covenanters, 50-28. In 1929 the Covenanters snapped a Mountaineer winning streak of seven games by winning by a large score, but this past campaign, the West Virginians brought an eight-man attack into play on the Geneva outfit and after getting away to a mediocre start and leading only 19-16 at halftime, broke through the Covenanters' defense in the second period when Montgomery, Geneva guard, was forced out on personals, and outscored the Pennsylvanians, 31-12 in the second frame.

WEST VIRGINIA 31; WAYNESBURG 28

Some more unexpected trouble was encountered in the Field house, Feb. 19, but Capt. "Little Sleepy" Glenn started spurting and managed to give the Mountaineers a 30-28 verdict over Waynesburg. The Yellow Jackets, employing the slow offense and the "stall" in a varied form, had West Virginia down 14-13 at halftime and Glenn had failed to bag a field goal. In the second period, however, the Mountaineer captain crashed through with five and led the West Virginians in a rally which enabled them to win a three-point margin.

PITT 21; WEST VIRGINIA 19

Pitt's great Panther cage outfit put a big price on the victory they gained over the Mountaineers at Pittsburgh, February 22 and used their famous "stall" game to top the West Virginians, 21-19. After the Mountaineers had exhibited a zone defense which they could not penetrate save by long gunning, and when the first half ended in a 17-17 tie, the Panthers went out and got a two-point lead and stalled practically the entire second half and managed to hang on with a two-point victory when a last-minute spurt of the Mountaineers just missed the goal which would have tied the game. Glenn, Bartrug and Doyle each goaled thrice for West Virginia while Pitt had only eight all told. Capt. Hyatt of the Panthers goaled but once. Pitt's margin of victory was gained at the foul line.

WEST VIRGINIA 48; MARSHALL 35

Marshall college sent its best court five in years to the Field house Feb. 26, but Capt. Glenn gave the Big Green a lesson in "southpawing" and led the Mountaineers to a 24-14 lead at halftime by bagging seventeen points himself. Marshall concentrated on Glenn in the second period and then Cubbon and Lepera carried on to offset a flurry of long-range shots by the Cahell countians. Glenn finished with nineteen points for the evening's scoring honors.

WEST VIRGINIA 47; WASHINGTON & JEFFERSON 26

The Washington and Jefferson Presidents got a peep at Glenn at his best in the Field house, March 1, and they also found that the Mountaineers possessed a scoring punch in their guards when Ratcliffe joined with Glenn and this pair alone ran up twenty-nine points to aid materially in the 47-26 victory for West Virginia. Glenn had eight goals and a foul while Ratcliffe tallied five goals and a pair of free throws.

WEST VIRGINIA 46; WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON 30

The entire West Virginia team staged a scoring spurt at Washington, Pa., March 5 and again the Washington and Jefferson Presidents were defeated, this time, 46-30. Despite the small floor on which the game was played, the Mountaineer offensive worked smoothly and the defense kept the Presidents' "in" shots scattered. Bartrug was the leading scorer with thirteen points, closely followed by Cubbon and Hamilton of W. & J., and Ratcliffe.

WEST VIRGINIA 33; PITT 25

Pitt's mighty Panthers were not afforded the opportunity to use their famous "stall" play in the closing game of the season in the Field house, March 8 before a throng of 4,000 persons and as a result the Mountaineers, with Capt. Glenn and Ratcliffe, each playing his last game, in great form, defeated Pitt 33-25. Ratcliffe kept the great Hyatt in check, but the Panthers couldn't stop Glenn and the Mountaineer ace led West Virginia's onslaught with seven goals and three fouls for seventeen points.

West Virginia had a 17-9 lead at halftime, and played the Panthers on even terms at 16-16 in the second period.

Hyatt scored nine points for Pitt and Glenn easily gained the edge on him for the year

BOXING 1930

Boxing, the baby sport at West Virginia University, got a good start with a team composed of six sophomores and one senior, Capt. Gregg Krebs.

The meet with Penn State college at State College, Pa., inaugurated the sport on an intercollegiate basis. Although three of the bouts were extremely close, the Mountaineers won only one, the heavyweight scrap which was annexed by Leonard Hawkins.

After opening in a more auspicious manner than had been anticipated, the Varsity came back to Morgantown and put on the first intercollegiate bout ever staged on the campus, defeating Georgetown, 4-3 in the Field house. Hesse, 135 pounds; Stunkard, 145-pounds; Capt. Krebs, 160 pounds, and Hawkins, heavyweight, won the bouts which gave the Mountaineers their victory. Stunkard defeated the intercollegiate welterweight champion, Capt. Fish, in an extra round bout.

The third match, that with Bucknell, at Lewisburg, Pa., went to the Pennsylvanians, 4-3. West Virginia won in the 135, 160, and heavyweight classes.

Western Maryland college was given a battle at Westminster, Md., in the fourth match, but the Mountaineers went under, 5-2, Stunkard in the 145-pound class and Hawkins in the heavyweight class having been the only Varsity men to win. Two other bouts were extremely close.

The Mountaineers took their worst beating of the season in New York City in competition with New York University, losing the match 6-1. Stunkard scored West Virginia's only point, and Hawkins's four-match winning streak went by the boards when he fell before Serutis.

Eddie Vacheresse's boys pulled a surprise in the big March 8 program at the Field house before some 4,000 fans when they defeated the Army, 4-3. Owen Hamilton, 125-pounder; Stunkard, boxing at 135 pounds; Krebs, in the 145 pounds; and Hawkins, heavyweight.

WRESTLING 1930

With only Capt. Gordon Brill, 145-pounder; Paul T. Meyers, 155-pounder; and Clarence Higgins, 165-pounder, as the only lettermen left as the 1930 wrestling season opened, Coach Steve Harrick experimented successfully and the Mountaineers finished their season with a record of five victories and only three defeats.

Waynesburg college was the opening meet victim in the Field house, 24-10. West Virginia lost in the 115 and lightweight classes.

In the second match of the season with Ohio State at Columbus, the Mountaineers dropped a 22-6 decision. Eddie Girden, 125-pounder, wrestling in his last intercollegiate bout before graduating at mid-year, and Paul Meyers, 155-pounder, were the only West Virginians to win, both on substantial time advantages.

On the succeeding week-end, Marshall college brought its team to the Field house, but the Varsity trimmed the "Big Green," 24-6, losing only in the 115-pound and 135-pound bouts.

The University opened athletic relationship with Western Reserve university of Cleveland when the Ohioans came to Morgantown for a meet with Coach Harrick's much-improved team. By winning all bouts excepting the 115-pound and 165-pound affairs, the Mountaineers gained their third victory in four starts, 24-6.

In the closest match of the season, Ohio University was defeated at Athens, O., 18-11 on the succeeding week-end. Capt. Brill, 145-pounds; Meyers, 155-pounds; Lewis, 175-pounds; Martin, heavyweight; and Beatty, 115-pounds, won their bouts.

Waynesburg college was encountered in a return match at Waynesburg in the sixth meet of the season, and this time the Varsity won, 28-10. The Yellow Jackets won the first two bouts, but were shut out hereafter. Paul Meyers, again wrestling at 155 pounds, won his sixth consecutive victory.

The undefeated Navy Middies kept their record for the season intact when they shut out the Varsity at Annapolis the week-end following the second Waynesburg meeting, 28-0. Meyers lost his first bout of the season to Gray of the Middies.

Oklahoma A. & M. college, national collegiate championship team, defeated the Mountaineers, 31-3 in the concluding match of the season in the Field house, March 7. It was the fifty-sixth consecutive dual meet victory for an "Aggie" team, extending over a period of eight years. Higginbotham, wrestling at 125 pounds, was the only West Virginian to win his bout, although a couple of others were close, particularly the 155-pound struggle between Meyers of the Varsity and McGuirk of the "Aggies."

One of the best freshman teams in years at the University, went through an undefeated season. The Little Mountaineers won four matches and scored 116 points to 28.

BIG FOUR MEET

Although the personnel of the teams were practically the same, the list of events for indoor and outdoor track competition differ in a major degree, thus accounting for West Virginia's victory over the University of Pittsburgh during the winter in the Field house, and the loss to the Panthers in dual competition out of doors at Pittsburgh during the spring. Likewise, the team personnels were the same for "Big Four" competition, but the manner of scoring and the list of events again played into the hands of Coach Art Smith's better balanced team and the Mountaineers squeezed through to their second straight "Big Four" championship.

The indoors competition proved to be valuable in stimulating interest in track and likewise as an aid to the Mountaineers during the spring campaign out of doors.

On the whole, the 1929 track season was a big success for West Virginia, and was by far the most pretentious ever arranged, including the indoors program of the Ohio State dual meet which brought into competition two national champions in Dick Rockaway, Buckeye hurdler, and he "fastest human," George Simpson, Ohio's greatest sprinter.

Only two records of all-time performances of University men were equalled and none shattered last year in track, and both were marked by Russell ("Runt") Calloway, freshman hurdler. Calloway equalled the 120-yard high hurdle mark of 15 3/5 sec., established by Okey Morrison and H. Maxwell in 1927, on the two occasions he ran in them in competition against the Pitt Frosh and Kiski, and in the Kiski dual, equalled the 220-yard record set by Morrison at 25 1/5 sec., in 1927. The plebes, incidentally, defeated both the Pitt Frosh and Kiski in their only two duals.

West Virginia—Won 8; Lost 9

*Games played at home on the Old Athletic field.

1929 BASEBALL SUMMARY

With mediocre pitching and poor fielding to blame, West Virginia's 1929 baseball season was equally as mediocre. There was a bright spot, however, and that was the terrific slugging done by the Mountaineers. Eddie Vacheresse, veteran second baseman, gave a remarkable hitting exhibition throughout the season and finished with an average of .508 percent by hitting safely in the last fourteen contests. Earl Wolfe hit .486, while Bob Jackson, outfielder, Earl Croushore, shortstop and third baseman, "Bus" LaRue, third baseman, Capt. "Bill" Harrick, and Johnny Hash, outfielders, and Sigmund Weiner, general utility man, all hit over .300 per cent. The team batting average was .317 per cent, but unfortunately the fielding must have been just about as bad as the slugging was good.

A disastrous road trip through the District of Columbia, Delaware and Virginia left a bad impression on the Mountaineers' record and depleted the Varsity ranks of two regular stars—LaRue, third sacker, and Wolfe, catcher. LaRue fractured an arm and Wolfe suffered a fractured leg in the second of two games with the Quantico Marines at their base in Quantico, Va., and thus were lost for the last seven games of the season.

INTRODUCTION

With the establishment of a Division of Physical Education for men at West Virginia in the fall of 1928 there was also established, as a branch of this division, a Department of Intramural Athletics. Under the guidance of Professor Harry L. Samuel as Director of Intramural Athletics the Department completed its first years of existence in 1929.

Previous to this new departure competition in basketball, track, baseball and horse-shoes had been conducted on a straight elimination basis by the interfraternity council. This competition was closed to all fraternities or individuals outside the council and consequently this program reached only a very small proportion of the student body.

Starting out in October 1928 Speedball, a game new to West Virginians, was introduced. The game was received with unexpected enthusiasm on the part of the student body and from this time on the reception accorded the Intramural program was most gratifying.

During the first year twelve different sports have been conducted in the program. These have been Speedball, Tennis, Cross-Country Running, Wrestling, Basketball, Foul Throwing, Indoor Track, Bowling, Boxing, Playground Ball, Horseshoe Pitching and Outdoor Track. In this present year it is planned to add such sports as Handball, Volley Ball and Indoor Relays.

A total of 1073 different students participated in the twelve types of sports offered the first year and there was a total of 2642 entries in these sports.

The program will be altered from year to year and those sports which prove undesirable for Intramural competition will be dropped and others will be added as popularity and facilities permit.

Intramural athletics not only develops the individual, physically, but they train his mental, moral, and social natures as well. Thru this form of activity he learns the meaning of sportsmanship, fairplay, and the sacrificing of self for the best interests of the group. The social contacts the individual makes are invaluable while the returns which come from his exercise cannot help but contribute to a more complete living.

Intramural athletics offers the individual, who played on his high school teams, but who is not sufficiently expert to make the varsity, the opportunity to satisfy his longing to participate in competitive athletics. The activities included in an intramural program are so varied that there is opportunity for every individual no matter what his level of ability. They enable the individual to perfect himself in those skills which he will want to pursue after college days are over. It makes for a deeper appreciation of varsity athletics, in fact, Intramural athletics has so many worth while qualities that I cannot recommend too strongly, that every student make it a point to participate.

MANAGERIAL SYSTEM

A volunteer corps of student managers assist in carrying out much of the detail necessary to the functioning of the program. There are four classifications of managers:

viz., Senior Intramural Managers, Junior Sports Managers, Sophomore Try-outs, and Unit Managers.

The Senior Intramural Managers shall be senior students appointed from the Junior Sports Managers of the preceding year by the Administrative Board. They shall directly supervise the work of the Junior Sports Managers and the Sophomore Try-outs. Upon the recommendation of the Administrative Board to the Athletic Board of Control, Senior Managers will be awarded sweaters with the minor sports managerial award thereon. Up to three Senior Intramural Managers may be appointed in one year.

There may be up to six Junior Sports Managers appointed from the Sophomore Try-outs by the Administrative Board and who serve in their Junior year. They shall work under the supervision of the Senior Intramural Managers. Each shall be awarded a sweater, maroon in color with an old English W. V. in white thereon.

The Try-outs shall be sophomore students. In exceptional cases second semester freshmen may try out provided they have a high scholastic average for their first semester. The Try-outs shall be assigned to the Junior Sports Managers as needed and shall work under their direction attending particularly to such details as notifying contestants by phone or letter, caring for equipment, copying schedules and results, acting as scorers and time-keepers in games, etc. Each Try-out recommended by the Administrative Board shall be awarded a jersey with his class numerals in the colors of the Sophomore class.

The Unit Managers shall be appointed by the organization which they represent. They shall be notified of the time and place for each contest and shall then be responsible for the prompt appearance of their team and its conduct during the game.

Article V—All-Year Point System

Section 1. For the fraternities there is conducted an all-year championship which is determined on a point basis. Each fraternity is given a certain number of points dependent on the showing made in the different sports. The fraternity having accumulated the highest point total at the conclusion of the spring program is awarded the trophy symbolic of the all-year championship. This trophy is donated by the A. G. Spalding Company, Pittsburgh branch, and is known as "The A. G. Spalding Trophy for Intramural Sports."

The fraternity winning the runner-up position is also given a trophy. This trophy is awarded by Mr. C. P. "Mike" Leatherwood, a graduate of the University and a former varsity athlete. Mr. Leatherwood is proprietor of The Sport Shop at Clarksburg, W. Va., and the award is known as the "Sport Shop Trophy."

Points for the All-Year Competition are apportioned as follows:

HONORARIES

Tau Beta Pi

WEST VIRGINIA ALPHA CHAPTER

Honorary Engineering Fraternity

Tau Beta Pi was founded at Lehigh University in 1885. It is the oldest and most representative of the honorary engineering societies and is the only one at West Virginia University. Its purpose is to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates, or by their attainments as alumni. Distinguished scholarship is not considered the sole criterion although it is the primary requisite for admission.

Alpha chapter of West Virginia was formed from the local Theta Psi and was installed in 1922.

Mortar Board

Senior Women's Honorary Organization

Founded, University of Syracuse 1918

Laurel Chapter, Installed at W. V. U. 1925

The purpose of the Laurel chapter of Mortar Board is to encourage and recognize leadership in student activities among women of the University. In the spring of each year such junior women as have become eligible through activity in student affairs are chosen to membership. The organization strives to promote movements for the best interest of the state and for the student life at West Virginia University.

American Institute of Electrical Engineers

Established 1884

West Virginia Branch Established 1915

The West Virginia branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers is one of the sixty-eight student branches in the United States. It was organized in 1915 under the direction of Professor V. Karapetoff of Cornell University and Prof. W. E. Dickenson of West Virginia University.

The objects of the institution are the advancement of the theories and practice of electrical engineering and of allied arts and sciences, the maintenance of a high professional standing among its members and the development of the individual engineer.

Minutes of Fraternity Meetings

PHI DELTA THETA

The members did away with dinner on the evening of the meeting and devoted all their time to the glorification of old Phi Delta Theta. Brother Radcliffe, in somewhat of a stew, demanded that the guilty member return his purple knickers, since he had finally got a date somewhere and wanted to wear them. Brother Wiseman assured Brother Radcliffe that they would surely be returned since he knew of none that would have the nerve to wear them. Brother Meyers let it be known that he was going to become a ladies man starting next month, and asked that he members give him their hearty support. Brother Ashworth said he favored turning in their charter and petitioning Phi Gam because he liked their pins better. This was voted down on the tenth ballot. Brother Healy put the boys wise in a political way and told them to write down the name of the candidate they were to back in order to be sure of which side they were on. Someone suggested that he would like a glass of beer so the meeting ended.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

Cyrus S. Kump, a man about town, was a visitor at the house on this particular evening and insisted that they let him in the meeting. The boys finally broke down and allowed him to enter, but were sorry for it after a few minutes for this stranger insisted that they let him make a speech. Once he was on the floor there was no stopping him. He spoke of something he called "politics" that none of the members seemed to understand. However they allowed him to speak for two hours, after which time he seemed to feel better and the boys got to like him a little. After he was through there were loud cheers and some talk of making him an honorary member. At this time Brother Hartman told the members of the advantages of being well dressed. As he put it, "It isn't my personality or automobile that puts me over, the secret is the cut of my clothes." One member agreed with him while the rest formed a group and put him out of the house. Brother Wood suggested that someone see the President of the University to try to arrange to have the school year split up into quarters so they could have more parties between semesters. This seemed to remind the boys of a lot of things so the meeting was deserted.

DELTA TAU DELTA

With Brother Simpson back in the fold the lodge faced the coming semester with an air of confidence. Early in the meeting a vote was taken to determine who was the slickest member in the house. The competition quickly narrowed down to Brothers Cochran and Jarvis. Each of these illustrious gentlemen was given the floor for an hour in which to brag about his smoothness and technique. Brother Cochran took the stump first and gave a long list of statistics that showed his ability as a breaker of female hearts. He read a list of those that he had conquered, told something of their family history, and explained how he had done the trick. Brother Jarvis took the stand and told, with spicy adjectives, of his many feats as a lover. After hearing both sides of the story the members went into a huddle and Brother Brown was instructed to throw the two killers out the nearest window. It was suggested that a row of flower pots be placed around the porch; but it was finally decided to borrow some pots from the Chi Omegas and steal the flowers when spring came. Brother Scott fell dead at this time and the meeting ended to carry him out.

ALPHA PHI

In bloomers, kimonos and beach pajamas the bewitching damsels strolled into the place of meeting. Between yawns one of the fairer sisters explained that she just couldn't stand another tea this week—the week-end at Yale being too much for her. The head of the social committee checked up to make sure that every sister had received at least three invitations to the coming Pan Hellenic. The freshmen now entertained with their weekly style show, while the members fired up their Murads and showed a bored interest. Quite a bit of interest was aroused over a new creation in cheese cloth that one of the frosh displayed. Six of the sisters wanted to purchase the same gown, and a rather heated discussion arose over the matter; however it was finally decided to pitch pennies for it. The group on etiquette now demonstrated the proper method of retrieving a dropped handkerchief, and instructed the members on how to carry on a conversation between courses at the Comuntzis Club. The yawning now became pronounced so the meeting adjourned to allow the sisters time to dress for the evening.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

Meeting in the stable at the University farm the boys got down to work at once. A hog judging contest took up the first hour; but the contest was thrown into confusion when Brother Parsons got mixed up with the hogs and several of the contestants picked him as the prize winning sow. Following this was a short intermission during which cider and pie were served, and the new Alpha Phi's entered in a body to participate in an old fashioned barn dance. The question of getting a better foothold in New York was brought up and it was unanimously decided that the brothers should wear white collars for at least a week during the next rushing season. A discussion of what to do about the grass on the front lawn grew into a heated debate. Some favoring one fertilizer, some another. However it was finally terminated by arranging to have at least two of the brothers stand out on the lawn all during the day and carry on a lengthy conversation. It was agreed that this would surely be an inexpensive way to raise a fine crop of grass. A report was now given on the Japanese beetle. It was explained why the Japanese beetle didn't live with the common potato bug and vice versa. However this educational talk was rudely interrupted when one of the brothers got his beetles mixed and started to spin a yarn about a girl he knew in Benwood. At the mention of a woman the members became confused and the meeting ended.

DELTA KAPPA PSI

Meeting was held two hours late because Brother Foote was taking the boys three at a time and riding them around the block in THE automobile. However they finally gathered in the music room and got down to the terrible facts. Brother Cooper quizzed the members for two hours to try to find which one had taken a pot shot at him while he was out in the back yard picking violets. Everyone denied any connection with the heinous affair, and Brother Cooper was quickly flying into a rage when Brother Casto said that he had fired both barrels of his shot gun at a Belgian here he had seen out in the yard the night before; however Brother Casto said he had no idea it was Brother Cooper that received the shot. There followed a short game of Truth in which Brother Ebling stole the show with his many stirring narratives of the women he had known.

Brother Burdette now demonstrated to the brethren, the correct form of a letter to write home to get the extra money for a special week-end. Several members took down the form and decided to try it out the next week, even though it would not be a special affair. Brother Randolph brushed the dust from his ears and rendered a long lecture on the advantages of having the upper hand on the textbooks. The Brothers quietly agreed and got up and left the room.

KAPPA MU

A wire was sent to the Pope, but he was unable to attend due to family troubles; therefore the usual meeting occurred. Brother Duffy warned the members that Saint Patrick's day was coming and that they should be storing up their celebrating tools. Brother Erb amused the members for a few minutes by knocking up a few flies for the Freshmen to catch. Brother Donlan said that Morgantown didn't agree with him and that he thought they should move the house out to Notre Dame where the atmosphere was better. He was ruled down by a close vote. Brother Moore suggested that a party be thrown out at Cheat real soon. This seemed to interest most all the boys, so they arranged the details at once. Lemonade was to be the only drink, and pretzels the only form of solid nourishment. Several members said they would have to write home and get their family's permission before they could go. Brother Moran felt warm by this time so the members adjourned and played a few hands of Red Dog.

SIGMA DELTA PHI

The charter, ritual and password were all forgotten so a prep had to run down to Comuntzis and get Brother Pike to come up and conduct the meeting. Having nothing to do Brother Pike accepted the responsibility; and also gave a long talk in which he told the members how easy it was to make money after leaving college. Brothers Ruth and Rose assumed control of the next hour and presented a short play, without theme or title; however it was suggestive enough to get a great deal of applause from most of the boys. Brother Sutton passed the plate and the members gave liberally to the fund to keep the Alumni from starving. Brother Bledsoe was going out so, the meeting was stopped half an hour early in order to give the boys plenty of time to get him dressed.

President Turner was invited over for dinner, but he was smart enough to go to Comuntzis instead. In the absence of President Turner Brother Hannah ate too much and was sent to bed with a swollen stomach. Brothers Cubbons and Flowers had a rare knuckle encounter in the meeting hall to decide once and for all which was the better side of Spruce street. Brother Flowers was on a technicality. Brother Flowers was elected the Dream Gir. for the coming semester, and presented with a large bouquet of Orange Blossoms. In reply to this presentation Brother Flowers gave an interesting talk on what Pi Kappa Alpha meant to him and his. Very few of the members knew what he was talking about so he was finally thrown out of the room. Brother Cubbons then took the floor with a club in his hand and demanded that he be heard. His grievance was that the members didn't take advantage of the shower baths as much as they should. He explained that he had once lived on a farm and had swept out lots of stables; but he could not stand the way the brothers disregarded their Saturday night social duties. It took five of the members to silence Brother Cubbons, so the meeting terminated for want of a good issue.

KAPPA SIGMA

The meeting was called to order in the Stadium since most of the brothers were to be found there. Brothers Larue and Lang engaged in a debate as to the advantages of being tall and short. By mathematical calculations Brother Larue showed that should he fall down on the sidewalk, he would have a much better chance of not breaking a bottle in his hip pocket than would Brother Lang. The figures were rather vague but most of the members accepted the story. Brother Stumpp said that something should be done about the promiscuous chewing of finger nails at the dinner table. Brother Johnson said the answer was that there was nothing else to chew. At this remark Brother Stumpp threw his left crutch at Brother Johnson, hitting Brother Joseph in the ear. Brother Joseph started swinging and soon everyone had joined in. In two hours they were all on the sod and were found in this condition the next morning by the caretaker.

THETA CHI

Following an ancient Russian tradition the members assembled in high top boots and sombreros. Brother Moore suggested that they turn in their charter and join a circus, assuring those reluctant ones that they could surely get jobs in the side shows as some sort of freaks. The house being under water, several of the aquatic stars entertained the members with a display of fancy diving and swimming. Brother Kreiger's activities along this line stamped him as one of the most likely looking fish in the lodge. After this a short business meeting was held during which it was decided that they needed a new house, charter and members; however nothing was done about any of these things. A spring party was discussed but it was said to be too expensive, so it finally narrowed down to the choice of a taffy pull at the Kappa house, or a picnic on the front lawn. After arguing on the question both ways it was decided to have the taffy pull, because it less expensive and offered a good chance for the members to get their hands real clean. A bill collector came to the door and the meeting ended hurriedly.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Sister French opened the meeting with a short prayer for Dean Arnel, more comfortable and spacious divans on the first floor and better Wheeling Stogies. After a bit of preliminary debate, Sister Moore suggested that the three single girls in the lodge accept the Theta Chi pins since it didn't look like they would get any other offers. In her coy way Sister Currence reminded the girls about keeping the blinds down after four o'clock in the morning. Under the head of new business Sister Miller, (just plain Daisy Mae to the boys) boasted that a full grown man had followed her up the street the night before. At this remark vivacious Sister Highland leaped to the center of the floor and demanded his address, but she was ruled out of order. Sister Seabright then gave a short but interesting talk on what Phi Beta Kappa meant to the Sigma Chi's. Sisters Preston and Bettome engaged in a lively debate as to whose night it was in the Wooing Room. Sister French ruled that Sister Bettome needed it the most. Sister Smith had just started to read her latest note from New York when a Freshman announced that there was a man down stairs. The meeting ended in wild confusion.

In a dead silence the maids assembled. Sister Murphy quietly suggested that the swing on the front porch be oiled and repaired for the spring rush. Sister Williams thanked Sister Murphy for being so considerate toward the other girls. Sister Dowd, on behalf of the alumni, gave an inspired talk on what qualities to look for in a young man. Sister Straley assured the girls that it took brains as well as beauty to really be attractive. Sister Davis, of Indiana fame, rendered a lengthy oration on Home Life, in which she compared the renowned Indiana corn to that of West Virginia. Sister Casto explained to the members how easy it was to smart in the classroom. Sister Straley asked that the chapter consider seriously the question of chartering a bus every Sunday afternoon to ride up and down High street. Sister Armstrong was excused at this time to take up her watch at Pierce's. Having no business to transact the girls staged a short game of Truth and then went to bed.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Circular letters were mailed to the members three days ahead so that most of them were present for the meeting. A fine point of rules came up when Brother Boughner asked permission to bring a textbook into the meeting. Most of the boys said it would take all the joy out of the gathering; but the committee on scholarship had an impromptu meeting and decided in favor of Brother Boughner. This at once caused an argument because Brothers Glenn and Nixon wanted to get permission to let their families sit in at the meetings. After much wrangling it was decided that a textbook was entirely different than a family, so the requests of Brothers Glenn and Nixon were not granted. The morals court now held its session and severely reprimanded several of the members for their questionable actions over the week-end. Brother Noel told the chapter of a magazine article he had read that had convinced him that drinking didn't pay—he urged all the brothers to read the article. Brother Davis suggested that the athletes in the house that had to run to the meeting from the athletic field without showering should be given a bench of their own to sit on. Brother Noel was sleeping by this time so it was decided to adjourn.

Some of the members wanted to watch the girls walk by the front of the house so the meeting was held on the front porch. Brother Ruble didn't have his varsity sweater on so he was sent out to get it. Gazing out on the spacious lawn a great majority of the brothers were contemplating on the joys of spring, and the happiness of living, when they were rudely awakened from their dreams by hearing Brother Chambers announce that there would be another special assessment next month. This brot them to their feet in a cry of opposition, but Brother Chambers stuck by his cannon, and they had to admit that he was right. Brother Ruble, after much persuasion, decided to tell the boys what he thought about as he soared over the crossbar at about twelve feet. He said that it was a strange thing but he usually bought of a huge piece of apple pie—although after a bit of proding he admitted that occasionally he would get his mind on a certain maid over in Sunnyside. Brother Fittro wanted to go ice skating, so the gathering was dissolved.

PI KAPPA PHI

Being the most adept at throwing the bull, Brother Hill assumed command of the meeting from the outset. Brother Musgrave was appointed as head of the inspection committee to look over the boys before they went to the Junior Prom. Brother Oneacre was on a rampage, and gave the members a severe bawling out for not being more active on the campus. At this Brother Ven Voorhis entered the fray and told his tearful story of having been a track candidate for four years with little or no success. Everybody felt sorry for Brother Van Voorhis, and assured him that he was absolutely right. At this time a short business meeting was called and it was agreed that they needed more money, preferably hundred dollar bills in carload lots. Brother Wilson suggested that they start brewing a little beer and dispose of it around the neighborhood in order to bring in a little surplus. This was discussed at some length, and it was finally decided to go out and get a few beers so they would have the proper atmosphere in which to discuss the matter. So the meeting adjourned to Star City and the beer question became the center of all eyes.

PHI KAPPA TAU

In spite of Brother Smith's disapproval, Brother Board had a special meeting to warn the members to vote for him in the coming elections. Brother Board's reasons for not wanting to be elected were rather questionable. He claimed he didn't have time, and also said he didn't like the way politics was run at the University. However most of the brothers were smart enough to realize that there was a woman at the bottom of it all. Since the meeting was held on an off evening there were only four members present, so this select group got together and passed some rules agreeable to themselves. Brother Bowers had a law passed that the Freshmen should serve his breakfast in bed for the rest of the year. Brother Knotts ordered three cases of beer and charged them to the lodge. Various other bits of choice legislation were pushed through, until Brother Smith wanted to have the fraternity buy him a suit of clothes for the work he had put forth for the group. This was a little too much and a fight ensued that broke up the meeting.

PI LAMBDA PHI

After the famous Irish custom the brethren gathered in their flowing green robes. Brother Goldstein interrupted the dignity of the gathering a bit when he tripped on his garments and fell sprawling on the floor; however he was soon retrieved and the meeting continued. Brother Hexter made a very touching little talk in which he apologized most profusely for the poor grades he made the first semester and promised the members that it would not happen again. Brother Ferderber accepted the apology, but warned Brother Hexter that they would tolerate such actions very long. As head of the athletic committee Brother Brownstein reported that after much investigation he had found that eating pineapples at night was not being done by the country's best athletes therefore it should be stopped in the house. The financial statement for the month was read and it was found that there was a profit of forty-five cents. At once there was a demand to know where this surplus had gone. Confusion reigned in a very few minutes with everyone accusing someone else of pilfering the profits. The money was never located but the members had to adjourn the meeting to send their suits to the pressing shop.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

Half cocked the boys trickled into the sacred shrine to do their bit for dear old Phi Sigma Delta. Brother Katz waxed warm with a short parody on the famous "Dissertation on Roast Pig". This was well received, and at this time Brother Sebulsky passed out ham sandwiches that were declared to be very tasty by the entire group. Brother Fisher reminded the members that breakfast was still being served in the mornings, and that some of the brothers should take it a little slower during the evening meals. There was some talk of having Paul Whitman and his orchestra down for the formal party, but they finally decided to rely on Carson Howard again. It wasn't the money involved that made the difference, it was just a case of being possessed of a little community spirit. Brother Cohen jacked the boys up a bit on a few social points, after which they sang The Side-walks of New York, and the meeting broke up.

PHI KAPPA PSI

At exactly seven o'clock the roll was called and ten members were found to be present. Brother Hart was given the honor of sitting in the green plush chair, due to his recent triumph in the fashion show. Brother Hart was also given permission to wear his new hat in the meeting hall. Brother Lowe announced that the Monticola was going to be the best ever published and admonished the brothers to place their orders early. Several members booed at this statement. At this time tea was served by six neophytes attired as Japanese flower girls. Over the teacups the members discussed the question of singing in the shower bath. Brother Phillips said he understood the English did it. As the discussion seemed to be going in a circle, Brother Beardsley was appointed to wire Emily Post and get the correct answer. After a ten minute wait a telegram was received from Miss Post which read as follows, "If you can't find anything else to do then sing." For the next two hours a whist game took the center of the stage. Brother Maynard had the highest score and was given the prize of a handsome pair overshoes. Brother Maynard announced that he could certainly use both of them. Meeting adjourned.

SIGMA CHI

Brother Krebs took off a batch in the afternoon so the members were ready for anything by evening. Brothers Wildt and Marker were on the wagon, so they were given yeast cakes in order to feel at home. Brother White recited, Crossing the Bar, which was well received. Brother Zever's was fined for amusing himself in the corner and not paying attention to the discussion. Brother Wildt gave a short skit in which he imitated the Four Marx Brothers on a vacation in Somerset, New Jersey. Brother Gordon came in late, covered with blood and gravel, and explained that he had had a terrible time trying to get in the meeting hall at the Phi Sig house. He was fined fifty cents for faulty judgment. A committee was appointed to try and decide why the scholastic standing was so low. A discussion of this question arose at once, and it was held by all that the professors were entirely to blame. The subject was dropped at this convenient point. The fire whistle blew at this time and the meeting disbanded.

KAPPA ALPHA

A leaking roof forced the brothers to meet in the cellar. Brother Ayres presided at the urn, while Brother Hamilton greeted the members at the door. After thirty-five had squeezed in the room the door was bolted and he late members were excluded. Brother Meisel again warned the brethren about leaving too much food on their plates after meals. Brother Calloway submitted his report, that had taken months to complete, on how to have a girl in the University and also one out of town at the same time. An argument came up as to whether the Freshmen should be allowed in pool rooms or not. Brother Ayres claimed it would undermine their morals and teach them bad habits; but he was vigorously opposed by Brother Wittenberg, who, in strong language and with many gestures, said that pool was a gentleman's game and had absolutely no connection with morals. He also went on to say that as far as learning bad habits was concerned he had no fear of the billiard halls; so far, he said, the Freshmen had learned nothing, so why deny them this opportunity to grasp a little knowledge, even if it were bad. By this time most of the Brothers were asleep, so the rest of the members left.

In scholarly fashion the members filed into the meeting hall. In faultless precision they took their respective seats. With joined hands they blessed Pi Beta Phi. Sister Miller then passed around lolly pops and the meeting was declared informal. With Sister Rodgers at the Steinway, Sister Wiley gave her interpretation of Charlotte Greenwood on a week-end trip to Cairo, Indiana. The pertinent question of what to do with the Freshmen arose, and it was decided to farm four or five of them out to the Kappas for further seasoning. Sister Handlan thanked the girls for their high scholastic marks of the first semester. They insisted that she think nothing of it in face of the early arrival of spring. Politics seeped into the meeting and lasted about two minutes. Sister Fox asked that the girls back her in her race for the coveted position of May Queen. The meeting adjourned with nothing accomplished.

SIGMA NU

Brother Glenn called the members together beneath the White Star. Brother Epling couldn't see the White Star so he was led over to it. Brother Edmunsen trickled in and was fined for eating three sour apples in one day. Brother Snyder gave a talk on the practical side of morals that had everyone in tears. The idea of burning down the house fermented in Brother Epling's fertile mind; but it was decided to suspend the question until after the spring party. Brother Glenn warned those members that had been taking tramps in the woods to be sure and clean their feet off before they came into the house. As he quietly put it, "The place is beginning to look like the Delt House." For the next fifteen minutes a rousing game of drop the handkerchief took place, until some of the members began to perspire; the game was dropped with Brother Lively holding the handkerchief. Following this there was a warm discussion on the question of dates for the partners from some of the larger towns of the state. But Brother Snyder stood up for spring party. A small group, headed by Brother Lively, wanted to import for their dance the local girls, for no apparent reason. They were still on the subject of women when the breakfast bell broke up the meeting.

BETA THETA PI

In spite of a heavy fog in and about the house—the gavel called the Brothers to order as usual. Brother Brown made a motion to the effect that town girls be allowed in the house at all hours—seconded by Brother Levis, failed. Brothers Davis and Burgess held Brother Waddell up while he entertained the members with some slight of hand tricks and rendered the more touching scenes from the old Irish melodrama The Silent Duck Hunt. Brother Mevers suggested that the members consider seriously the question of buying a new house. Most of the brothers agreed that the word BUY was disagreeable to them, so they let the matter drop. Brother Chase thought a fine should be imposed on those members that couldn't walk on the boardwalk in front of the house, but were always stepping off on the new grass. Brothers Levis, Burgess, Wadell and Davis objected strenuously claiming that the boardwalk was very hard to see on late Saturday nights. No decision was reached on the matter. A fight at the door of the meeting room now attracted all the attention. Brother Winchester Latham forgot the password but insisted that he be allowed to enter. Brother Chase waved the bloody shirt and the struggle was on. For three hours the battle raged; but Brother Latham was finally seated just as the meeting ended.

PHI ALPHA

Meeting for no good reason the members declared the gathering informal and lounged at ease. Brother Epstein gave the Freshmen a severe reprimand for not shining his baton better, whereupon the Freshmen agreed that if it weren't for the baton there would be nothing outstanding about the band leader. Following this plans were laid for the party to be held on the train on the way home for the Easter holidays. Brother Blickman was appointed to supply the refreshments for the affair. As a business move the Brothers discussed the question of pledging Legs Taylor; however after a warm discussion it was decided to black ball him and take up orangeade as the fraternal drink. Brother Weiner now gave a short talk on how it felt to be a varsity baseball player. Several of the members couldn't see how Brother Weiner could get such a feeling, but they let it pass without much argument. Next year's rushing was discussed and several of the boys said they had some clean cut lads lined up for the fall. Meeting adjourned with Brother Epstein leading.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Sister Dunn and her hand maids assembled in the pantry and got down to the cold facts. A piano was borrowed from the Kappa house, and Sister Brown rendered the catchy yet touching tune, Down in the Old Cherry Orchard. At this juncture eighteen of the more gifted Freshmen presented a stirring drama, The Silent Suffocation of Sargaret Mtrale, that was met with wild cheers and much hand clapping. Sister McConnell related, with reservations, various experiences of her last summer school, and urged all the Sisters to stay and attend the session this summer. At this point tea was served and the members disbanded to do their Easter duties.

DELTA GAMMA

None of the sisters had dates so they settled down for a quiet meeting. Sister Carskadon reported that after a two months investigation she had found the hidden secret as to why the Pi Phi's had more dates than their own girls. Several of the members demanded that Sister Carskadon divulge the secret in open meeting, but she explained that it would have to be whispered to each girl individually after the meeting ended. Sister Bromberg, at the request of the chapter, submitted a short article on the activities at a typical W. & J. house party; while the Freshmen sat around with popped eyes. The subject of a new house arose, and immediately a warm discussion as to whether the old traditions should be carried into the new house. Some of the girls thought they should start with a clean slate and establish their traditions; while others were of the impression that the old slate was a great piece of work and should be carried into the new abode. No action was taken and the meeting was terminated for want of discussion.

TAU DELTA THETA

Brother Fahey was feeling badly but he came to the meeting in spite of it. Brother Reed threw the gavel at Brother Burton for eating peanuts; however the gavel hit Brother Hamstead by mistake, and a free for all resulted. But having quieted down again the meeting continued. Brother Fahey suggested that they petition for a charter from the Kappa Alpha fraternity, and the motion had passed when someone said they thought there was a chapter here now. The recheck man looked it up and found that there was already one chapter of it here, so they dropped the matter since they all agreed that one chapter was enough. Brother Sylvester asked the chapter to back him in his run for assistant trainer of the girls in the May Pole Show. Brother Pickering suggested that President Turner be invited over for a meal, so he could understand why their minds didn't function well enough for them to get their classwork. Brother Fahey left so the meeting was over.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The pledges were in a good humor so they allowed the older girls to sit in on the meeting—but they were not allowed to talk. Pledge Cottrell presided and it developed into a very good meeting. Pledge Simpson reported for the Freshmen Committee that Sister Smith had broken Rule 9 of the by-laws. There was a gasp when this was heard, and several of the Pledges looked slant eyed at Sister Smith. However Sister Smith faced the issue squarely and said that she would not have broken the rule unless it had been necessary. But she contended that there was no other way for her to get across the puddle unless the young man had carried her, and she was sure it would not happen again. She was excused but given a lengthy talk by Pledge Ross. The next thing was a party; and the Pledges easily forced the actives to give it for them by the following week. After a little more legislation favorable to themselves the Pledges left while the rest cleaned up the room.

PHI MU

The question of what to do about last year's spring dresses that are too short for this spring took up the greater part of the meeting. Sister Parsons said they should set their own styles and the rest of the campus would follow them. She contended that they should wear the dresses as they are and be truly different. Sister Herd saw her chance and at once assured Sister Parsons that she was different without having to wear a certain type of dress. In the tussle that followed there was a great deal of scratching and kicking, but they both agreed when it was over that it had all been in fun—sure, just a little fun. Sister Thompson now threw her spell over the group and proceeded to get a few bills through. A proposal to do away with house rules was now presented, but Sister Sturm stood firm against it; she claimed that the girls should be smart enough to get around them or else suffer the consequences. The meeting adjourned to think over this proposition.

BIOGRAPHY OF A ROADS SCHOLAR

On a murky September day, back in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-four, a smooth faced poyeyed lad boarded the train at Clarksburg, West Virginia, and rode all the way to Lexington, Virginia, by himself. Alighting at Lexington he procured a Bromo Seltzer, and wended his way out to the dancing instructor's office of the Washington and Lee University. Presenting his credentials, he was ushered into the presence of this illustrious heel and toe man. The instructor, a genial old gentleman for all his false teeth, bade the stranger have a chair. The young man sat down, nervously pulling at the woolen underwear that protruded out his sleeve. "Well, my little man," said the aged ballroom sage, "Might I ask your name, and why you have come to school here?" The bowlegged boy struggled to his feet. "My name sir, is John Davidson Phillips, and I am here to play left tap on the Soft Shoe team, or know the reason why. Back in Harrison County they call me Loose Feet Phillips; although I assure you sir, the loose part refers only to my feet. I've burned up the hardwood on every hall in Clarksburg, and though I may be a bit forward I still feel that I can make your damn dancing team."

Thus, dear children, was launched the stirring career of this brave mountain youth. A career that was to carry him from a humble backwoods cabin to the collegiate Hall of Fame. For, as many a rosy cheeked maid has said, he had that certain thing. Regardless of the opposition, this fearless lad faced the storm with a blunt determination; and with him at all times was his invisible banner bearing the oath he lived by,

Always try to get all you can

Fill your pockets as well as your hand.

But to continue the life of this happy warrior. After three months in Lexington he had the village by the forelock. His sterling "dogs" stood by him and he danced his way into the hearts of those simple country folk. His name became a household fixture. In spite of the fact that several men of the neighborhood swore he could not see their daughters again; still his winning smile and shifty feet made him the idol of the town. Aged spinsters on the way to market stopped to gossip about his latest steps, and it was no uncommon sight to see two or three elderly matrons stop in the middle of Plumb street and try to execute his famous Harrison County Twist.

However, as is the way with great ones, our stalwart champion soon tired of such small time show. Therefore the fall of nineteen hundred and twenty five found this extraordinary youth hanging around the poolrooms of Morgantown, West Virginia. But he didn't forget his dancing children—not for a minute. As a matter of fact he had been practicing all summer on some new steps, and when the social season opened he simply stunned the hamlet with his intricate Blind Mule Stomp. Really kiddies, it was such a hoof fest as to make you forget all about Old Mother Hubbard and her simple Scotch husband. From every house top the face of this rollicking gambolier was shouted until the frosty mountains echoed the call. Instead of saying "Good morning," the residents would greet each other with, "Have you seen HIS latest act?" Mothers began to boast that their infant sons resembled "Loose Feet" although of course the famous dancer had nothing to say on that matter. No, no, of course he didn't.

And through it all, "Loosey," as the boys called him, kept both feet on earth. True, he got intoxicated three or four times a week, but he still managed to pedal extremities pointing earthward. For as he was wont to remark, "It's hell when you get them both above your head."

But now children, it's time to go to bed and we must end this narrative of the little country boy. But before we stop I must tell you that after five years at Morgantown the fame of this high stepping lad has become international in scope; and the first of next fall will find him over at England's great University at Oxford to show people of that country his remarkable ability as a soft shoe artist. One country could not hold this ambitious youth, and I'm sure that we all wish him luck in his conquest of the British Empire. Now gwan to bed.

THAT FAMOUS CHI OMEGA SWING

I don't believe you have been kissed in a blue moon.
No but I've been kissed in a red Cadillac.

Why is a kiss like a rumor.
Dunno. Why?
Because it goes from mouth to mouth.

Guest: An do you know every bit of furniture in our home goes back to George the Third?

Phi Sig: Well, we're in the same boat. Every bit of furniture in our house goes back to Hornes, if we don't pay our installments by Monday.

She was only a miner's daughter, but oh what natural resources.

Dr. Fromme—If a hen can eat a quart of sawdust in a week, how long will it take her to lay a shingle?

M. Glenn—Give up.

Fromme—So did the hen. Too many splinters.

From One World to Another

After college—the world of study—what next? A new world—the World of Work—a world that moves with constantly increasing speed.

In this new world where quick communication is so essential, the telephone has come to be a vital factor. Each day hundreds of thousands of messages carrying estimates, prices, orders to buy and sell—every conceivable transaction—fly from one end of the country to the other—even across the ocean—by telephone.

There is no medium of communication that can compare with the Long Distance Telephone. Use it—ye moderns—if you would make and keep your places in the world of today.

A refreshing drink for busy workers

Did you hear about the new shot put liquor?
Nope. What about it?
One drink and you heave.

Now that you've kissed me Prof. what do you think of me?
Oh, you'll pass.

One—Do you know how to makea peach cordial?
Two—Surely. Get her half soused.

Have a cigarett?
Sir, I am a Kappa.
Pardon me. Havea cigar.

Greater Service— Lower Cost—

HAVE YOU ever considered that in a few years usefulness of electricity in every-day life has increased a thousand-fold? Little more than a decade ago electric lights at a few widely-separated places in the home represented the total utility of electricity.

TODAY there is scarcely a task in the home, office, store or industrial plant that electricity does not do at reasonable rates. While the uses of electricity have increased miraculously, figures reveal a constant reduction in its cost. In other words, as it became more valuable to men's needs, electricity, unlike every other commodity, became easier to obtain at a lower price. Existing rates today provide lowest cost for greatest use.
